

Want A Safe Neighborhood?

Walking can get you there!

One of the best ways to make a neighborhood safe is to know your neighbors and your surroundings. Walking makes the people, houses, businesses, and traffic patterns of the neighborhood familiar. When neighbors know each other, that comfort builds community. Everybody wins when we make walking a part of our everyday routines and when we work together for safe walkable neighborhoods.

Tips for making your neighborhood more walkable:

1. Explore your neighborhood on foot. Make a map of walking routes from your home to favorite destinations.
2. Make walking part of neighborhood events such as a picnic or a tour of a neighborhood park or garden.
3. Connect with area schools to support families who want their kids to walk or bike to school and other places in the neighborhood. You can be part of a neighborhood effort to make the routes safer for kids.
4. Practice safety when you walk, bike, or drive.
Go to Safety Matters \(www.walkclarkcounty.org/safety_matters.php\) for safety tips.

Walkable communities don't happen by accident! Take it to the next level:

- Conduct a walkability audit of your neighborhood. Discuss the results of your audit as a family. Share the results of your audit with your neighborhood association, school board, or the city or county transportation department.
www.WalkClarkCounty.org/audit
- Connect walkability and sustaining a healthy environment.
Go to www.WalkClarkCounty.org to learn how walking instead of driving helps save the planet.
- Write a letter to the editor of your local newspaper about the need for walkable communities. Share the results of your audit, barriers to walking your family experiences, or examples of how your family is walking more.

www.WalkClarkCounty.org

Want A Safe Neighborhood?

Walking can get you there!

One of the best ways to make a neighborhood safe is to know your neighbors and your surroundings. Walking makes the people, houses, businesses, and traffic patterns of the neighborhood familiar. When neighbors know each other, that comfort builds community. Everybody wins when we make walking a part of our everyday routines and when we work together for safe walkable neighborhoods.

Tips for making your neighborhood more walkable:

1. Explore your neighborhood on foot. Make a map of walking routes from your home to favorite destinations.
2. Make walking part of neighborhood events such as a picnic or a tour of a neighborhood park or garden.
3. Connect with area schools to support families who want their kids to walk or bike to school and other places in the neighborhood. You can be part of a neighborhood effort to make the routes safer for kids.
4. Practice safety when you walk, bike, or drive.
Go to Safety Matters \(www.walkclarkcounty.org/safety_matters.php\) for safety tips.

Walkable communities don't happen by accident! Take it to the next level:

- Conduct a walkability audit of your neighborhood. Discuss the results of your audit as a family. Share the results of your audit with your neighborhood association, school board, or the city or county transportation department.
www.WalkClarkCounty.org/audit
- Connect walkability and sustaining a healthy environment.
Go to www.WalkClarkCounty.org to learn how walking instead of driving helps save the planet.
- Write a letter to the editor of your local newspaper about the need for walkable communities. Share the results of your audit, barriers to walking your family experiences, or examples of how your family is walking more.

www.WalkClarkCounty.org

Want A Safe Neighborhood?

Walking can get you there!

One of the best ways to make a neighborhood safe is to know your neighbors and your surroundings. Walking makes the people, houses, businesses, and traffic patterns of the neighborhood familiar. When neighbors know each other, that comfort builds community. Everybody wins when we make walking a part of our everyday routines and when we work together for safe walkable neighborhoods.

Tips for making your neighborhood more walkable:

1. Explore your neighborhood on foot. Make a map of walking routes from your home to favorite destinations.
2. Make walking part of neighborhood events such as a picnic or a tour of a neighborhood park or garden.
3. Connect with area schools to support families who want their kids to walk or bike to school and other places in the neighborhood. You can be part of a neighborhood effort to make the routes safer for kids.
4. Practice safety when you walk, bike, or drive.
Go to Safety Matters \(www.walkclarkcounty.org/safety_matters.php\) for safety tips.

Walkable communities don't happen by accident! Take it to the next level:

- Conduct a walkability audit of your neighborhood. Discuss the results of your audit as a family. Share the results of your audit with your neighborhood association, school board, or the city or county transportation department.
www.WalkClarkCounty.org/audit
- Connect walkability and sustaining a healthy environment.
Go to www.WalkClarkCounty.org to learn how walking instead of driving helps save the planet.
- Write a letter to the editor of your local newspaper about the need for walkable communities. Share the results of your audit, barriers to walking your family experiences, or examples of how your family is walking more.

www.WalkClarkCounty.org

